Hence it appears that החתי had their proper seat in the north—where also they were encountered by Assyrians from time of TP I (v. Schr: DLP. c.), and by Egyptians from time of Tutmes III (v. W Max Müll.:1. c.)—(cf. also Ju 3:3, Jos 11:3 supr.), but that individual Hittites were known in Isr. (cf., besides 1 S 2:6, 2 S 11:3 etc., 1 K 9:20 supr.); that the Hittites were regarded (by JED) as one of the peoples of Canaan, and that the name even came to be used in more gen. sense for Canaanites. Only in P do they appear as having a definite settlement in the south, and are designated by בנותי (v. חת), as well as by the adj. החתי.
